Fellow Directors in the Company Don't Think the Veteran Financier Kept Faith With Them-The Meeting Held Yesterday Said to Have Been a Very Lively One.

None of the directors of the Standard Gas Light Company, all of whom attended the regular monthly meeting of the board yesterday. was willing after the meeting to tell what had taken place at it. It was reported in Wall Street, however, that there had been quite a lively time, the directors having taken turns in vigorously criticising the course of Russell Sage in selling most of his Standard Gas Light stock without having first told them that he contemplated doing so. They assert that Mr. Sage had agreed not to dispose of his stock unless the same terms were accorded by the purchasing interest to all the other stockholders of the company for their holdings.

Mr. Sage, who was at the meeting, declined postively to say what had occurred. It was learned that he was still President of the company, but it could not be learned whether be had been asked to resign his office. His term expires in April. One of the directors. who was seen, said:

"We had a lovely meeting. I would not be in Russell Sage's shoes for all his $75,000,000. There is something besides money in this world."

He declined to be more explicit as to why he referred to the meeting as a "lovely" one. Mr. Sage's salary as President of the Standard Company, this director said, is $5,000 a year. From another source it was learned that the buyers of Mr. Sage's stock, the Standard Oi. Interests in the Consolidated Gas Company, have also sequired other blocks of Standard Gas stock lately, although not enough to carry control of the company. William Rocksfeller was said to have called upon Mr. Sage at his office on numerous occasions and to have been told by Mr. Sage that he would not sell unless the other holders of the stock also got the benefit of the same price. Mr. Sage is said to have given Mr. Rocksfeller accertain price as the one at which he would sell if the rest were willing. Later, however, A. C. Burrage of Boston, one of the Standard Oil lawyers, is reported to have called upon Mr. Sage with a check made out for the exact amount that his stock would bring figured at the price Mr. Sage had mentioned, the result being a transfer to Mr. Sage of the check. "I have no doubt that track-laying on the various extensions will be completed by Peb. 1, but I am uncertain about the bridges. There are five of those structures, some of which are far advanced but we are having considerable difficulty in obtaining material needed in their construction as premptly as we would like. These bridges will span the James River at Richmond, the Appomattox at Petersburg, the Meherrin south of that city, the Congaree at Columbia and the Wateree near Camden.

"The completion of these bridges means the connection of the Seaboard Air Line, the Georgia and Alabama, the Florids Central and Petersburg and Carolina and the other properties that will form the Greater Seaboard system. I hope we will be in shape to begin the operation of through trains between New York and Florida by Feb. 1, but if there is a delay it will be due solely to the failure to complete the bridges in time."

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

FRIDAY, Jan. 12.

A reduction of 1 per cent, by the Imperia Bank of Germany in its official discount rate, a decidedly easier local money market, indications of an excellent showing by the Assoctated Banks to-morrow, and, finally, encouraging news regarding the movements of the English forces in South Africa were the factors that influenced the speculation in stocks to-day. The further improvement in monetary conditions abroad resulted in moderate purchases of stocks here by foreign arbitrage houses. Some of the smaller operators for short account became sufficiently apprehensive at this development to cover their contracts. and by doing so they contributed to an early rally in prices. The larger operators on the short side betrayed no such timidity, but sold stocks freely at the advance, and apparently gained confidence because prices yielded under their sales. It was significant, however, that they did not succeed in dislodging stocks nor in foreing fresh liquidation, and that the decline ceased as soon as they stopped selling.

Long before the close of business it became plain that the market had been sold practically to a standstill, and the appreciation of that fact induced buying chiefly to close ventures on the short side of the market, that resulted in a sharp recovery throughout the list. Final figures for the stocks most extensively dealt in were 1% per cent, or more above yesterday's closing prices. Sugar Refining, in which the dealings were less than half as large as yesterday, enjoyed a net advance of 3% per cent Other noteworthy net gains were 1% percent. Besides, receipts of cur rency through the mails have been over $2,000,000, indicating a net gain in cash for the week of over $6,000,000. As to-day's receipts of cash from the interior were unusually heavy it is safe to assume that to-morrow's bank statement will be made upon rising averages as to cash on hand. The closing of the stock market was strong at about the best prices of the day.
